Aw, car that stuff. We got you with the goods this time. What are you doin' down there?"

"Why don't you look and see?"

"You might shoot!"

"Havent got a gun! Go on and let me alone. I'm only trying to build a fire." And the tolse of splitting boards again begun to emanate from the cellar. Then the cop carefully looked in the window and saw a man chopping wood. It was all explained in a minute. Young Moore, who is the Congressman's son, has been staying at his father's home for the last two weeks. He had been visiting relatives in New Jersey for everal days and arrived home at midnight. All the fires were out. He tried to start a heater fire, but it wouldn't start. Then, having run out of wood, he started to chop some.

The next door neighbor, hearing the sounds, phoned the police. Hence the brave attempt to frustrate a robbery. At 4 a.m. today it was announced that the fire was burning brightly and the louse was warm and all was peace and quiet in the neighborhood.

I had never before been in a German trench, and I gazed with awe at the wonderful revetting work which was to be seen everywhere. The legs laid one on top of the other. The fire bays, fire steps, traverses, etc, were as carefully and strongly built as though they had been completed before as carefully and strongly built as the bays. The communication trenches were remarkably deep and just as well constructed. At short distances they were covered over by legs forming shelters under which men could take cover in case of shell fire. Their communication wires were covered over by legs from the from our line.
